OTC BROKERAGE REMUNERATION

This notice serves to formally advise you that your brokerage remuneration has been renewed and is currently registered as a pending payment on your trading account. The renewal follows the expiration of the last processed commission cycle and represents the recurring charge associated with the facilitation and execution of trades. The specific amount of the remuneration will be communicated separately or indicated in your account records in accordance with established procedures. Timely settlement of this charge is required to maintain uninterrupted account operations, restore full trading capabilities, and ensure compliance with internal and regulatory frameworks. You are therefore instructed to address the pending remuneration at your earliest convenience to safeguard account functionality and continuity of trading services.
