DOM Algorithm Execusion

This notice serves to inform you that your trading account has been suspended from trading due to a pending Platform/Data charge, following system upgrades to our brokerage infrastructure. The account was identified as operating on an outdated version, restricting access to Trade Guidance and DOM Algorithm Execution functionalities. The charge represents fees for essential platform access, market data subscriptions, and analytics services necessary for real-time trade execution, market depth assessment, and algorithmic strategy deployment across all traded assets, including foreign shares, cryptocurrencies, and NFTs. Settlement of this charge is required to restore full platform access, ensure operational integrity, and maintain compliance with institutional trading standards. The precise amount will be communicated separately or reflected in your account statement. Timely payment will reinstate your account's trading privileges and re-enable access to all advanced platform features.
